'Passed through glory's morning gate
And walked in Paradise.'"

"GEORGE WHITMAN DANIELSON.—George Whitman Danielson was born April 26, 1829, in Killingly, Conn. He was the son of Jacob Whitman and Lucy Maria (Prince) Danielson. He took the name of Whitman from his ancestor, Jacob Whitman of Providence, who was a noted citizen and real estate owner on Westminster and Weybosset streets, and whose mansion house and lot bounded on both those thoroughfares. Mr. Whitman had two slaves named Prime and Primus, to whom he humanely bequeathed their liberty. Mr. Whitman's daughter Hannah was married to the great-grandfather of the late George W. Danielson. The marriage took place in this city, and was celebrated in a style becoming the station in life of the parties. The high heel, No. 3, French shoes of the bride are still preserved by her descendants, as well as the handsome wedding gown which she wore. After Jacob Whitman's death, the Lyceum lot and the lot below McNeal's lane were set off to Hannah Danielson's heirs, and the Franklin Lyceum Building still remains the property of her descendants. It will thus be seen that the deceased editor was descended from good old Rhode Island stock. His Connecticut ancestry was also honorable. The house in which he was born was erected by his ancestor, James Danielson, who, according to the family tradition, was of Scottish descent, and who settled in Pomfret, Conn., in 1706, where he made a purchase of land from the Indians, and subsequently, in 1707, bought from Major Fitch a tract of 2,000 acres on the Quinebaug and Five Mile Rivers. There James Danielson built a home, and about one-half of the original tract still remains in the possession of his descendants, a portion of it being included in the flourishing village of Danielsonville, named after the Danielson family. It should be stated, also, that James Danielson, for his services as a volunteer in protecting the colony against the Indians, received a share of the land in the town of Voluntown, donated by the colony as a bounty to the brave men who had taken part in its defence. The Danielsons continued, from the time of the settlement of their ancestor in Killingly, owners of the soil, respected and influential citizens, especially peaceful and law-abiding, and frequently intrusted with those local offices which in the rural districts are still the testimony of the confidence and esteem of the community. George Whitman Danielson attended the district school and received an academic education. While attending school he also worked on his father's farm, doing a good share of the farm labor for a boy, while giving close attention to his lessons. From an early age he took a decided leaning to the printer's trade, and in his fifteenth year he entered the office of E. B. Carter, the village printer, at Danielsonville, and there he remained for one year. During the first six months his compensation was $3 a month and board, and during the second six months $10 a month and board. He rendered very efficient service, and from being only an apprentice when he went into the office, he soon proved himself capable of conducting the business, much of the burden of which fell upon him. Windham County has always been tributary, both of its talented sons and of the productions of its favored soil, to the city of Providence, and it was natural that young Danielson, in looking for a wider field than the village printing office, should travel in this direction. He came to Providence in 1845, and here he worked as a journeyman printer. He also visited New York about this time and set type on one of the morning papers there, and notwithstanding the temptations which surround printers on a morning newspaper, he steadily adhered to his mother's parting injunction against the use of stimulants. Indeed, throughout his whole career Mr. Danielson was an example of temperance, and but for his excellent habits would not have been able to bear for so many years the strain of the unremitting labor which he imposed upon himself. After a brief period in New York, young Danielson, still a youth but full of ambition and energy, returned to Providence. Here he readily obtained employment, and while still under 20 years of age he published the Daily Sentinel, a paper which, though of brief existence, gave promise of the future. From the first the earnestness of the young man, and his determination to push forward to success, attracted attention and aroused the jealousy of some, while enlisting the good will and friendly offices of others. He was for a time editor of the Daily Transcript, which was conducted with an ability that commanded the respect of older journals. On the 26th day of July, 1848, he became editor and publisher of the New England Arena, at W. Killingly. The salutatory was signed 'G. Whitman Danielson,' and the lines which headed the paper were indicative of the spirit of the man :

'Thy spirit, Independence, let me share,
Lord of the lion heart and eagle eye ;
Thy steps I'll follow with my bosom bare,
Nor heed the storm that howls along the sky.'

Some words in the salutatory are worth repeating, they so plainly speak the character of George Whitman Danielson: 'In the first place, we assume the publication of the Arena for the purpose of gaining an honest livelihood, and although we expect to be obliged to toil unceasingly to accomplish that object, still we expect to merit it and mean to get it. . . . We sympathize much with the sons of toil, with the poor, with the oppressed; but we have no desire to stir up feelings of hostility and bitterness in the poor toward those who have been more fortunate in accumulating this world's goods. We only want the poor man to understand that he, in common with the millionaire, bears the impress of his Maker, and that, as long as he does right, he is as good as the best, and should so esteem himself. . . . We do not wish the Voltaires or Tom Paines in religion to find anything on which they can rely as support of their wild and chimerical dogmas; we would rather they should meet a rebuke in every line we write. It is true we rely on public patronage for support, but we despise the idea of gaining it at the expense of what may be considered sound principles. . . . As the cultivation of moral feeling is closely allied to the stability of government and the well-being of society, we shall devote a portion of our paper to original and selected articles tending to disseminate the mild principles of virtue, and diffuse a feeling of piety and devotion throughout the community. Our aim shall be to make a paper that shall adorn and bless the family circle, and on no account shall anything of an immoral or vicious tendency be allowed a place in its columns.' Such were the editorial sentiments of G. Whitman Danielson over his own signature before he had reached the age of manhood. The Arena continued in existence for more than a year, when George Whitman Danielson, now arrived at man's estate, came back to Providence to enter the ranks of journalism where he was already favorably known. In May, 1851, he occupied the position of reporter of marine news for the Daily Post of this city, and continued his connection with that paper for several years, acting also as foreman of the composing room and also as assistant editor. He frequently had charge of the paper. He displayed on the Daily Post remarkable industry and journalistic capacity, and thoughtful men began to look toward him as one who was certain to make his impress in journalism and in the State. In 1859, on the 14th of March, he established the Evening Press, in company with Albert R. Cooke. The paper, thanks to the able management of Mr. Danielson, grew in value and in influence until it had achieved a prominent and honorable position, besides affording assurance of being largely profitable at no distant date. In Sept., 1862, Mr. Danielson sold out to Mr. Cooke his interest in the Evening Press, and took a few weeks' recreation. During this period he visited the Army of the Potomac, and wrote home some interesting letters from the front. On the first of Jan., 1863, at the request of Senator Anthony and Mr. Joseph Knowles, Mr. Danielson entered the Journal office as business manager and managing editor. He soon gave a quickening impulse to the paper, which sent its circulation upward, and the establishment of the Evening Bulletin, Jan. 26, 1863, brought the news and editorial opinions of the Journal to the doors of the masses in the form of a cheap evening newspaper, which, from a circulation of a few hundreds to begin with, has achieved an average circulation of more than twenty-two thousand daily, its circulation, combined with that of the Journal, making a total, as Mr. Danielson stated with just pride a few months ago, surpassed by but few newspapers in the world. The profits of the business, it need hardly be said, increased proportionately, and the great establishment which he has thus built up is a more glorious monument than any that can be erected to the memory of George Whitman Danielson. But all this was not achieved without unceasing and vigilant effort. For a number of years Mr. Danielson came to the Journal office about ten or half-past ten in the morning, and remained until after the Evening Bulletin went to press about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Then he would go home to dine, and return to the office about 7 o'clock in the evening, remaining until from half-past 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. Within about three years past Mr. Danielson has not generally arrived at the office, in the evening, before half-past 7 or 8 o'clock, leaving about 2 o'clock in the morning, but there has been no relaxation in the vigilance with which he has controlled every detail of the establishment, whose employées number not less than two hundred.

As an employer Mr. Danielson was most generous and considerate, and he attracted to himself the loyal devotion of all who were around him. He was quick to respond to the appeal of distress, and many a dollar was sent by him for the relief of cases of poverty called to his attention by the reporters; but this relief was given in such a way that none knew but the messenger of mercy. No man had a warmer heart for the afflicted, and he had a true Rhode Island sympathy for the down-trodden. Though tenacious in his opinions and principles, he was far from being irreconcilable to those who had treated him wrongfully. He was a true gentleman in his deportment, and would not permit any one, however hostile to him personally, to be treated otherwise than with courtesy while under the roof of the Journal office, and he rarely appeared to display impatience even under the most annoying and irritating circumstances.

Mr. Danielson took a deep interest in the progress and welfare of his ancestral city, and was identified with many of its business enterprises. He was Vice-President and director of the Oakland Beach Association, a director of the Phenix National Bank, Richmond Paper Co., also of the Equitable Mutual Insurance Co. and of the Rhode Island Telephone and Electric Co., and he held stock in various other coporations. He was also, for a number of years, President of the New England Associated Press.

Mr. Danielson was a charter member of What Cheer Lodge of Masons. He was also, up to the time of his death, a member of the Westfield Congregational Church in Danielsonville, which he joined in early youth, and had been a generous contributor to Congregational churches in this city."

"GEORGE W. DANIELSON.—In the feverishness of the wound of deep grief which cannot now be relieved by yielding to it, and which makes the pressure of their work upon the journalistic family of George W. Danielson, suddenly deprived of the calm and absolute trust they felt in his firm government and considerate kindness, like that expressed in the pathetic words of the old fisherman in 'The Antiquary'—'Poor men maun to their wark again though their hearts are beating like trip-hammers,'—we are called upon to say something of his life and character. It will at best be but inadequate. The details of the onerous and many duties connected with the publication of a great newspaper must go on. The ship must keep her course, and the pilot next in order must place his unshrinking though unskillful hand upon the spokes of the wheel, although they are wet with the blood of the commander stricken down at the post of duty. But it must be left to calmer moments and wider scope for thought and recollection to give the details of the great public service to the State and city and the journalistic profession of George W. Danielson. We can now only speak of him more particularly as the editor of the Journal.

Mr. Danielson became a member of the firm of Knowles, Anthony & Danielson, and assumed the position of managing editor of the Journal, on Jan. 1, 1863, shortly afterward succeeding Prof. James B. Angell, who resigned to accept the position of President of Michigan University, as editor-in-chief. His training had been that of a thoroughly practical journalist in the wide scope of education in public affairs which the profession affords, and the intimate knowledge of detail which is necessary to successful management. He had early been attracted to the profession and had served a boyish apprenticeship in the office of the newspaper of the village of Danielsonville, Conn., the place of his birth. So early was his ability manifest that he became its editor when a mere youth and conducted it with remarkable ability. A wider field for his powers soon attracted him, and in connection and control of newspapers in this city he had served a thorough apprenticeship in every detail of his profession before taking charge of the Journal. There was nothing connected with the production of a newspaper, in every position, from the highest to the lowest, which he had not done and could not do well, and every department and detail was under an experienced eye and a master hand. He loved the work so that he could hardly abandon it to those who were necessarily less perfect in skill, and as the pressure of labor and supervision increased with the growth of the newspaper, he assumed it with the fatal results of the final collapse of the powerful brain and strong constitution. It has been generally known that he was most assiduous in his attendance at the office, seldom being absent from it for many years except during the hours devoted to meals and sleep, but only those familiar with its interior management could be aware of the enormous amount of labor displayed in the detail of every department and the comprehensive supervision of the whole. It is only a wonder that the burden on heart and hand was borne so long. His happy marriage of a few years ago, and the pleasures of domestic life which he enjoyed with deep and keen feeling, were only partially able to win him to a modification of labor, and he apparently worked the harder to compensate for the hours devoted to affection. It was only three days before the fatal seizure that a perception of growing weakness in sight compelled him to abandon a portion of his editorial control, but to the last hour, before his nerveless hand dropped by his side, his was the absolute authority and guidance.

The influence not only of his professional skill and industry, but of his strong mind and intelligent public spirit, were soon felt in the conduct of the Journal. It not only grew with the times and was abreast with the general progress of the city and State, but it was in advance of them so far as its own condition was concerned, and aided and led them by its vigorous spirit and earnest and intelligent zeal in every matter of public welfare. The Journal had long been one of the institutions of the State, and under the management of Mr. Danielson it more than maintained the influence which had grown so great under the immediate conduct of Senator Anthony, from which the latter's public duties had called him. A comparison of the size and contents of the Journal at the time at which it was taken charge of by Mr. Danielson, and the present eight-page sheet containing greatly more news than any newspaper published in New England, and the various editions of the Bulletin which was particularly his creation, will show how great the progress that was due to his ability and energy. It would require pages of detail to indicate the improvements made under his direction, and he was always foremost to see and to utilize the inventions and possibilities for the enhancement of journalistic enterprise, both in his capacity as editor of the Journal and in connection with the New England Associated Press, of which he was President. But this is but the smallest part of the tribute due to Mr. Danielson as an editor. The vigor and strength of his opinion, his sound judgment, his wide knowledge of public affairs, and his zealous interest and devotion to the welfare of the city and State, dominated its columns and gave the force and influence which it possessed. He was a power in the State for his force of ability and character, but it was never used for any selfish ambitions. He never would accept any office or honor of a public kind whatever, and his zeal and influence were wholly and unselfishly devoted to the welfare of the Republican party, which he believed to represent the highest principles and wisest policy in nation and State. He was firm in his political partisanship and friendships, and outspoken in his political opposition and antagonisms, but not beyond a worthy and earnest zeal, and no man was less likely to pursue a beaten opponent or cherish animosity which was not deserved. His style of editorial writing was vigorous and trenchant, and on the vital occasions and to the extent which his multifarious duties enabled him to devote himself to it, his mark was always felt and recognized.

Of his personal relations to his subordinates and employés, his newspaper family, for such it was in the ties of affection and command, it is harder to speak, as the overpowering wound for his loss rankles in the sensibilities. His control was firm but always most kindly and considerate. He was not effusive in manner, but most thoughtful and compassionate on all occasions demanding sympathy or assistance. His acts of personal generosity, which were always accompanied by an injunction to secrecy, were many and thoughtful and any occasion of misfortune found in him the kindest and most effectual sympathy. He was thoroughly and personally interested in the welfare of all his employés, and ready to take upon himself their labors to spare their health or afford them the opportunity for that recreation which he never took himself. Somewhat slow to give his confidence, it was absolute when given, and could not be forfeited except by the most absolute and persistent misconduct or failure. It might have been said that he was slow to take persons into his employment because he was so reluctant to discharge them, and he defended his employés with something of the spirit of a commander his soldiers. All these thoughts and sensations come upon us at the thought that the familiar face and form, and the always present influence which was the vitalizing spirit of the Journal, will be seen and felt no more, and words become inadequate and impossible."

d. Oct. 21, 1827; during the war of the Revolution he had a great desire to become a soldier; meeting with strong opposition from his father, when only fifteen years of age he ran away from home, going to Newport; here he attracted the attention of a Frenchman, a watch-maker, who resided in that city with two maiden sisters; they heard his story, and becoming interested in the handsome boy, wrote to his father advising him to let his son remain with them; this he did, and young Jacob remained with these kind friends long enough to learn the trade of watch-making, and at the same time acquired command of the French language; in consequence of the facility with which he spoke French, he was appointed by the town to communicate with the French refugees who came to this country in 1793, and many of whom settled in Rhode Island; after his marriage he engaged in the West India trade, owning and chartering many vessels; was also a noted and popular auctioneer; about 1804 he erected, on the site of his father's homestead, "Whitman's Block," at the Turk's Head, junction of Weybosset and Westminster streets; this was then the largest brick building in Providence (part of this building is still standing and in use); he became involved in the disasters at the close of the war of 1812, and owing to his severe losses retired from active business; he retired to his farm in the western portion of the city, and occupied himself with its care till his death, which took place, Aug. 27, 1827; his widow survived him but a few months; 13 c. 9411. EDWARD⁵ (507), John⁴, John³, Zechariah², John¹, b. Aug. 6, 1752; m. 1775, Dorothy Gates, b. 1749; he settled on what was termed, in the grant, as the second division of the township of Amapolis; his farm extended from the west side of the Lawrence-town lane to the church lot, so-called, running five miles south, containing about 3,000 acres; it is said that in order to amicably adjust his father's estate, he took this tract, then considered almost worthless, and that when the title was passed, he offered to sell the entire plot for "a thousand hemlock boards, a pair of pumps and a felt hat," but found no bidder: he settled down on this unattractive tract and by his industry and energy soon rendered himself independent; he had a tannery just below the road, on the Whitman Brook, said to have been the most complete establishment in the county; this was continued by his son Oldham; he engaged in trading and dealing in land; he was highly esteemed in the community and was once elected representative to the provincial assembly, but declined to serve a second term; was said to be a very corpulent man, weighing at his death over 300 pounds; there is a family tradition that at his funeral it was found necessary to take out the window frame in order to get the coffin out of the house; he d. Jan. 15, 1829, and was buried in the Whitman burying-ground; of him it is said that he appointed 100 executors to his estate, the explanation being that Judge Ritchie of Annapolis was one, his wife and son Jacob the others—being two ciphers; this proved only too true, as in the end the Judge became possessed of a greater portion of the estate; 12 c., all but one of whom married and left posterity; the youngest is still living. Dec. 8, 1778; he settled on the homestead and was a very respectable farmer; he also carried on the business of tanner and shoemaker; he left a large estate, and had the satisfaction of seeing most of his children settled and married before his death; he is said to have had a habit of laughing when he became angry, and those well acquainted with him knew there was a storm brewing when they saw him laugh; his wife was noted for her kindness and hospitality, especially to the poor; a wag once said that he did not believe "Aunt Nancy" would get to heaven, because she had saved the lives of a poor family, who were not considered a great benefit to the community; he d. about 1848; his widow survived him a few years; 10 c.

10074. VI. EDWARD^b, b. ; m. about 1808, Elizabeth Tileston, daughter of Col. Christopher Prince; he settled at Lawrencetown on the old Prince farm and built the Red House on this property; at one time owned much landed property and was a smart and enterprising merchant; a portion of his wife's estate he sold her uncle to obtain money to put in a vessel; he later built a vessel at the Lawrencetown Bridge in company with his brother-in-law, C. K. Prince, and sailed in her as captain, leaving Annapolis, Dec. 31, 1817, bound for Antigua, but was never heard from; it is supposed that the crew mutinied, and this idea gained some confirmation from the execution at Baltimore, some years afterwards, of a Swede named Peterson, who was believed to be the sailing-master under Capt. Whitman; this man, before his death, confessed to having destroyed several vessels and crews; after the death of Capt. Whitman his widow, with her four children and about to become a mother, moved back to Lawrencetown, the family having resided in Annapolis for the preceding year or two during the building of the vessels; she found the property heavily mortgaged and her affairs in great confusion, but by great industry and energy, aided by her son William C., she contrived to extricate herself from her financial troubles and bring up her children in a fitting manner; the date of her death is unknown; 5 c.

10075. 1. HON. WILLIAM CAGNEY^s, b. March 29, 1809; m. Nov. 27, 1836, Caroline Belyea of Carleton, N. B., b. Jan. 20, 1816; d. Jan. 25, 1884; he d. July 2, 1881, aged 72; at the time of his father's death he was a mere boy, but with characteristic energy he devoted himself to the assistance of his mother and the family; having received a small sum from William Cagney, for whom he was named, he purchased a heifer, and thus supplied the family with milk and butter; he learned the trade of shoemaker, and when he became older occasionally taught school; at one time resided in New Brunswick engaged in peddling; here he met his wife, and after his marriage returned home and settled on his father's farm, which by his industry had been freed from debt; from the time of his return home till his death he took an active interest in politics, allying himself with the Liberals; he was several times nominated as a liberal candidate for the county against Judge J. W. Johnston, then the leader of the Conservatives, and though never successful, his defeat was by such small majorities as to be very flattering to his influence and abilities as a speaker; 1848, he was appointed a Justice of the Peace, and Oct. 25, 1861, was called to the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia, a position he retained till his death; "although not a brilliant speaker, his remarks were models of clearness and common sense, and he was ever ready to uphold the right and denounce the wrong, so that it may be said of him through his political career, that his course was marked with consistent firmness for the welfare of his country; friend and foe found in him an unflinching advocate of the right, whom no consideration could move; his ambition was in all things to be a true man;" 12 c.

12126. ABRAHAM⁵ (513), John⁴, John³, Zechariah², John¹, the youngest son of John¹, b. Stow, Mass., Sept. 10, 1761; the early death of the father and their comparatively limited means compelled the early separation of the family; Abraham was of an active and energetic disposition, and at an early age started out to make his own living; he went first to Halifax, N. S., and then to Liverpool, N. S., and finally to Chester, N. S., where he settled down for some years; here he m. March 1, 1793, Hannah Webber, b. March 19, 1769, whose family had recently come from Connecticut; he was for a time engaged in ship-building, in which he was readily assisted by some Halifax merchants, notably Farman and Grassie; this industry becoming dull, he looked about for a new field; in his trading and lumbering voyages he had often passed through the Gut of Canso, and had been struck with the facilities of the place for a trade such as he felt he would like to engage in; about 1810 he moved to Canso and took up large grants of land, and built for himself a house and store, living here during the summer and at Chester during the winter; his business consisted in fitting out fishing vessels and selling the cargoes brought home from the Banks; the war of 1812, with its attendant privateers, rendered communication extremely dangerous; he therefore decided to live permanently at Canso, and in the month of December, 1812, after navigation had closed, he moved his family to what was then a barren and sparsely inhabited country; he built up a large business, and was the leading man in the community; the life was almost patriarchal, and his house was ever open to both friend and stranger, who always found a hearty welcome and a seat at the table or by the fireside; he d. "A REMARKABLE FAMILY GATHERING.—On the 17th of July, 1887, one of the most remarkable gatherings occurred, which probably ever took place in the Dominion of Canada, at the home of Henry A. Bears, Murray River, Prince Edward Island. The mother, Mrs. Dorcas Bears, the eldest daughter of the late Abraham Whitman of Canso, N. S., now aged 87 and one-half years, still enjoying all her faculties and in good health, was favored with the gathering of all her family of 13 children, who met for the first time, to greet her, as an unbroken family, except the father, who died some fourteen years ago, aged 77 years. The first place where all met was in the Temperance Hall to engage in the worship of God together. The Rev. Mr. Phinney preached from Genesis vii. 1: 'Come thou and all thy house into the ark.' After service the whole family repaired to the homestead and took tea together; seated, with the mother at the head of the table, the first-born on her right hand and the rest in the order in which they were born, bringing the youngest on the mother's left. The evening was spent in social conversation and singing. On Monday morning (the 18th) a picture of the family group was taken. The names and ages of the family are as follows: The mother, Dorcas Bears, aged 87 years 6 months; James W. Bears, 67 years 8 months; Sarah A. Cook, 66 years 3 months; Dorcas L. Grant, 64 years 9 months; Abraham W. Bears, 63 years; Mercy C. Horton, 61 years 8 months; Isaac A. Bears, 59 years 9 months; David A. Bears, 57 years 3 months; Rebecca E. Cook, 55 years 6 months; Hannah E. Cuddy, 54 years; John F. Bears, 51 years 8 months; Henrietta J. Brehaut, 48 years 10 months; Henry A. Bears, 45 years 6 months; George W. Bears, 43 years 6 months—making a total of 826 years 10 months. The grandchildren now number 65 living and 28 dead; the great-grandchildren are 73 living and 4 dead. There were present also, at the gathering, a brother and sister of the mother, whose united ages are 148 years."—Montreal Gazette, Aug. 3, 1887.

March 25, 1750, and soon after removed to Westminster, a new settlement in the dense forest of Western Massachusetts; here, with characteristic energy, he set himself to the task of clearing the woods and building himself a home; the site of his first house, a log cabin, is still remembered by his descendants; an enterprising, upright and honorable man, and a public-spirited citizen, he soon made his mark in this new home; by thrift and prudence he acquired a competence, and in 1798 stood third on the list of tax-payers and landed proprietors of the town; he constructed many houses, three of which are still standing, one having been used as a hotel; he gave his name to "Whitman's Village," a settlement on the edge of the town; in personal appearance he was of medium height, but with a bearing that betokened great energy; the following incident is related, indicating his fortitude and coolness under trying circumstances: Some seven or eight years before his death, while assisting a neighbor in moving a building, he was drawn under the rollers, and his leg completely crushed to the thigh; there was an immediate panic among the men, no one knowing what to do; but Mr. Whitman, in spite of his suffering, retained his presence of mind, and planned and directed ways and means for the difficult feat of extricating himself; his physicians insisted that the leg must be amputated, but to this suggestion he gave an absolute refusal, and though very lame, and compelled to use crutches the rest of his days, he recovered his accustomed health; he d. (Gammon) Standish, b. Sumner, Me., Jan. 30, 1832; a direct descendant of Miles Standish; "in early boyhood he was constantly occupied on his father's farm in Anson, Me., getting from eight to twelve weeks' schooling in the winter, never attending school in summer any after nine years of age; his father dying when the Doctor was only ten years of age, it was absolutely necessary for his mother to have the benefit of his labor on the farm, to help maintain a family of nine children, the Doctor being the eldest son; at sixteen years of age it was thought best he should learn the carpenter's trade, he having a decided preference for that occupation; he continued at this work in summer till twenty years of age, when he decided to obtain a liberal education; he commenced his studies at Waterville Academy under the instruction of Prof. James H. Hanson, and entered Colby University (then Waterville College) in the class of 1857; by incessant application to study and teaching during vacations, his health broke down during his second year in college, causing him to abandon his contemplated course of study; in 1856 he decided to make the practice of medicine his profession for life, and commenced the study of it with Dr. Sumner Gould of Madison, Me.; he was graduated in 1859 at the Maine Medical School, after taking two full courses of lectures at that school, and one full course at the University of New York; he was a private pupil of the late lamented Prof. J. Conant of N. Y. City, between whom there existed a very intimate acquaintance; in Aug., 1861, Dr. Houghton was appointed assistant surgeon to the 8th Regiment Me. Vols., and was with the regiment constantly till May, 1862, when he came north on furlough for his health, chronic diarrhoea claiming him for one of its victims; health not improving any, he was obliged to resign, June 16, 1862; in 1863, on the second day's fight of the battle of Gettysburg, he volunteered to go and assist the overworked and exhausted medical forces of that memorable battle; at Baltimore he was asked to go to the 20th Maine that was then without any medical or surgical assistance whatever; he remained with the 20th Maine till it went into quarters near White Sulphur Springs, Va.; in 1869 he went to San Francisco, Cal., for his health, he never having recovered from the disease contracted while in the army; after remaining in San Francisco nearly a year, he went to Washington Territory, first to Port Gamble, then to Goldendale; in 1879 he was appointed Superintendent of Public Instruction for Washington Territory, which office he filled for two years; was a member of the Goldendale city council three terms; 1883, removed to Seattle, where he now resides;" 4 c.

Sept. 26, 1837, aged 84; a farmer; residence, Stow; it is said that he was engaged in the Shay rebellion, and marched with his company to Concord and broke up the court; he d. July 27, 1821, aged 69; 9 c. I. Joseph⁶; II. Thomas⁶; III. Elizabeth⁶; IV. John⁶; V. Susanna⁶; VI. Edward⁶; VII. Mary⁶; VIII. Jane⁶; IX. Zechariah⁶.

13198. I. COL. JOSEPH⁶, b. April 14, 1775; m. May 15, 1795 (1798, town records), Lucy Parks, b. Feb. 16, 1776; d. Sept. 2, 1860, aged 84; as a young man Col. Whitman was noted for his great strength and skill as a wrestler, a sport at that time very popular among the young men, and was for a long time champion of the community until he broke a leg in a match; was also noted for his skill with the rifle, and, even when well advanced in years, was ready to wager that he could shoot a dipper off a man's head at thirty paces, and at turkey matches he always won the larger share of prizes; a man who, his sons said, could never understand what the sensation of fear was; naturally restless, he often left his home, even after his marriage, in search of adventure; in 1813 he went to Tennessee to visit some friends and while there engaged in flat-boating; upon one of his trips down the Mississippi, it so happened that he arrived near New Orleans just as Gen. Jackson was preparing for the defence of that city; an orderly seized the cotton for the fortifications, and ordered all the men, except the captain, to report for duty, but one of the men being faint-hearted, Col. Whitman left him in charge of the boat and took his place in the ranks; it is but natural to suppose that he did good service in the battle which soon took place, and that his rifle was by no means one of the least effective; after the fight he was detailed to take care of the wounded; he remained with the army a few weeks and then returned to his home; he was early settled at Lincoln, Mass., and there he ended his days; as may be presumed, from his fondness for a wild, reckless life as a young man, Mr. Whitman had but little education, though it is said that his letters were always written in verse, but nature had endowed him with a fund of hard common sense; during the last years of his life he was the universal referee in all disputes among his neighbors, and it is reported that his opinion had greater weight than that of the best educated lawyers of the community; he was Colonel of the militia and always interested in military matters; his wife was a woman of strong religious feeling and a regular attendant at church, while her husband was scarcely ever known to enter one; one Sabbath, it being communion day, to the surprise of every one, even his wife, he appeared before the congregation, and after a profession of his beliefs, applied for admission to the church; after a brief consideration of his request, he was admitted to church fellowship, and for the remainder of his days was constant in the observance of his religious vows; he d. Dec. 6, 1849, aged 74; 10 c.

An Obituary Notice taken from "Zion Herald."—"Rev. Joseph Whitman was born in the town of Stow, Middlesex Co., Mass., Feb. 15, 1811. A few months after his birth his parents removed to Lincoln, near Weston, where he resided, with the exception of about three years, till 1836. In 1829, under the labors of Rev. D.

Fillmore and Rev. I. Jennison, he was converted to God, though he received the evidence of his adoption while alone in a grove. He soon after united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Weston. His conversion was succeeded by a glorious revival in that place. He received a local preacher's license from Rev. D. Kilburn, Feb. 23, 1837. In 1838 he was appointed by the presiding elder to preach in Grafton. In 1839 he was received on trial into the New England Conference and stationed at Hubbardston. At that time the society in that town was small, but the members nobly coöperated with their young pastor in the great work to which he had been called. Aug. 13, 1840, he was united in marriage with Miss Eleanor, daughter of Elisha and Eleanor (Tower) Wheeler, Esq., of Concord, Mass. She was eminently qualified to assist him in the great work of winning souls to Christ, and survives him to mourn her irreparable loss, and to train their three young children in the way they should go. In Hubbardston their labors were greatly blessed, many were converted, 150 united with the M. E. Church, and the society erected a house of worship in the center of the town during his residence with them. In 1841 he was stationed at Fitchburg. There he also found a small society which had commenced building a church on a most eligible site in that beautiful village. The difficulties connected with the erection of a house of worship, by a feeble society, must be realized in order to be fully understood. These difficulties were surmounted, and during his stay the church and vestry were completed. He also labored hard for the salvation of souls. One winter, for seven successive weeks, he and his companion were every evening at the house of God. An extensive revival was realized, and 140 were added to the M. E. Church. During the two years he was in that place he attended 800 meetings, though part of the time he was unable to labor at all.

In 1843 he was stationed at Malden Centre, where he labored with his usual zeal. In addition to his labors in Malden he occasionally preached at Medford, where a revival commenced and about seventy were hopefully converted to God. A hall was hired as a place for public worship, and for six months previous to the Annual Conference he made arrangements to supply them regularly on the Sabbath with a minister of Christ.

In 1844 he was appointed to So. Boston. There, as in other places, his labors were blessed and sinners were 'brought from death to life.' In 1846 E. Boston was designated as his field of labor. In that rapidly increasing part of the city a house of worship was much needed. The society, with most commendable zeal, commenced the noble work, and erected, on Meriden st., a commodious brick church with vestries in the basement. A revival also greatly enlarged the society, and on the Sabbath their new house was filled with an interesting and an attentive congregation. The knowledge of his success at his different appointments was not confined to the localities where he had been stationed, but his reputation was quite extensive, and when he left E. Boston probably no member of the N. E. Conference was desired by a greater number of societies. When the appointments were announced in 1848 it was found that Milford was the place to be favored with his services. Again he was placed over a young society, and there, as in a number of previous appointments, a house of worship was considered indispensably necessary to their continued prosperity. The society resolved to build, friends rallied to their aid, Lee Claffin, Esq., contributed most liberally, and a commodious church and vestry and a convenient parsonage next to the church were completed during the period of his labors in that place. A revival also added many members to the church, and on the Sabbath an interesting congregation filled their new house.

The Conference of 1850 was one of deep solemnity to him. His arduous, unremitted and long-continued labors had at length so impaired his health that he could not preach, and with deep emotion he asked a location. The Conference, unwilling to lose one of its most successful members, voted to retain his name and give him a superannuated relation. On his return from Conference he met his family with tears, not because he had been appointed to a hard or difficult field of labor, but because that in the prime of life he was a superannuated man. With the exception of supplying the pulpit at No. Russell st., Boston, a few months, he preached but little subsequent to that period. Having desisted from preaching his health gradually improved. This fact was known, and though unable to preach, his numerous friends were unwilling to be deprived of his labors. In Nov., 1853, he was elected a member of the Massachusetts Senate by the voters in Worcester County. Soon after he was elected a member of that honorable body, he was also elected cashier of Hopkinton Bank.

The labors in the Senate, in connection with his duties in the bank, were evidently too much for his physical strength, and in April, 1854, to human appearance he was brought near the grave. The N. E. Conference was then in session, and he, being desirous that his name should no longer remain on the list of the superan-nated, once more sent an earnest request asking location. Though the Conference regretted that he should desire a relation which would separate him from that body as a member, yet the solemn request was granted. He subsequently partially regained his health, and some hoped that he might be spared for years and possibly again be able to preach the Gospel. But all were doomed to an afflicting disappointment. The disease having assumed a new form, the skill of the physicians was baffled, the kind offices of numerous friends proved ineffectual, and about 12 o'clock, on the night of Aug. 8 (1854), he left this world of changes and went triumphantly home to rest in heaven.

The funeral solemnities were observed on Friday, Aug. 11. At the house of the deceased, prayer, appropriate and fervent, was offered by Rev. J. T. Pettee of Boston, after which, with deep solemnity, the procession proceeded to the Orthodox Church. The countenances of the numerous friends in the congregation indicated that they were conscious of the loss the community had sustained—they evidently realized that God was there. Rev. H. P. Andrews, pastor of the M. E. Society in Hopkinton, read the 1077th hymn, which was sung with deep feeling by the choir. Select portions of the Scriptures were then read by the Rev. I. Smith of Leominster, after which an appropriate and heart-felt prayer was offered by Rev. H. P. Andrews. The 1085th hymn was read by Rev. D. E. Chapin of Worcester and sung by the choir, after which a deeply solemn congregation listened to a sermon by the writer, founded on John xi. 23, 24. Subject, the resurrection—a doctrine most glorious and full of comfort, but which has been assailed by skeptics in all ages, and is, by many professing Christians, at the present time. Dr. Clarke, referring to the resurrection, wrote: 'There is not a doctrine in the Gospel on which more stress is laid, and there is not a doctrine in the present system of preaching which is treated with more neglect.' Though mourning friends may entertain no doubt that the soul of the departed saint is in heaven, still, as they see the part which is mortal placed in the tomb to be seen on earth no more, how sweet, how consoling, are the declarations of Holy Writ, that 'there shall be a resurrection of the dead,' and concerning the saints, that 'the Lord Jesus Christ shall change their vile bodies that they may be fashioned like unto his glorious body.' At the conclusion of the sermon an appropriate piece was sung by the choir, and then the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. A. D. Sargeant of Milford, after which the remains were borne from the church by his ministerial brethren, followed by a large procession, to the silent tomb. The burial service was read by Rev. A. D. Sargeant, and then, with many tears, mourning friends looked for the last time in this world upon that countenance lovely even in death, and saw the body placed in the tomb to rest till the resurrection morn.

Having been intimately acquainted with Bro. Whitman for many years, much might be stated concerning those excellent qualities which I believe enabled him, by Divine aid, to gain so many sincere friends, and gave him such great success, but that must be omitted at this time. During his sickness he manifested a desire, if it should be God's will, again to enter the sacred desk. He would sometimes remark: 'If I should ever regain my health, O how I would labor, how I would preach to sinners, to the church and to ministers.' Bro. Andrews and others often conversed with him, and always found him evincing a spirit which indicated deep piety and a willingness to remain and labor, or to depart and be with Christ. Though feeble in health, last March he visited Weston, the place where he was converted, and where he united with the M. E. Church and received a license to preach. On the Sabbath he once more attended the church endeared to him by so many pleasant associations. Rev. L. P. Frost preached 'On the prospect of the righteous.' No subject could have been more congenial to his feelings. It was the last sermon he ever heard. He subsequently often repeated some expressions in the sermon, 'forever saved in heaven,' eternally shut in with Christ,' with joy beaming in his countenance. A few days before his departure, as Mrs. Whitman entered his room, with his hands raised and looking upward, he was exclaiming with much emotion, 'forever saved in heaven.' A few weeks previous to his death he attended a prayer-meeting with the M. E. Society in Hopkinton. During the exercises he arose and with much feeling addressed the congregation, and referred to the different prospects of the saint and sinner in the hour of death, and entreated them all to be prepared to meet their God. His pale and emaciated appearance, his weak, tremulous but earnest voice, and above all, the truths which he uttered, accompanied by the Holy Spirit, produced a powerful effect upon all present. A death-like stillness prevailed, and many tears were shed while the man of God was delivering his last public message to his dying fellow-men.

Having taken a solemn and final leave of all public meetings on earth, another scene of deep solemnity was just before him. The last hour of his pilgrimage was near, when he must bid his much beloved family and dearest friends farewell. The last hour at length arrived. His afflicted companion, conscious of the fact, pro posed the solemn question: 'My dear husband, do you think that you are dying?' He replied: 'Yes.' She asked: 'Do you feel willing and fully prepared to go?' He unhesitatingly answered: 'Yes, I do,' and then added: 'If I was not, there would be no time to prepare now.' He then took the hand of his beloved companion and with much emotion commended her and their three children to God. The last solemn duty being performed, in a few moments the immortal spirit left the tenement of clay to dwell eternally with unnumbered millions in heaven. The last expression he made in reference to himself was: 'My faith is in God.'"

April 2, 1885; for many years engaged in farming at Rolling Prairie, Wis.; in 1882 they celebrated their golden wedding, at which time there were living twelve children, seventeen grandchildren and five great-grandchildren; she resides Beaver Dam, Wis.; 14 c.

“Golden Wedding at Rolling Prairie.”—One of the most interesting events in the community for many years was the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Durkee Lyon, which took place at the old homestead, at Rolling Prairie, on the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 18, 1882. Over one hundred and fifty of Mr. Lyon's friends and neighbors assembled to congratulate this favored couple, and spend the afternoon in renewing the friendly interest they entertained for each other, and expressing the kindly feeling toward those who had been such good neighbors and faithful friends from the pioneer days to the present time.

Mr. Durkee Lyon was born in the town of Troy, Orleans Co., Vt., in 1804, and Mrs. Lyon was born in Stow, Mass., 1814. They were married in Stow, Aug. 18, 1832, and came to their home in Wisconsin, 1843. Their family consisted of fourteen children, twelve of whom are still living.

Wm. D. Lyon was a drummer in Co. D, 5th Wisconsin, and was killed at Fredericksburg, Va.

There are seventeen grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

This occasion brought together many of the old settlers of Dodge County, among whom we may mention: Mrs. Thomas of Burnett; Col. Lockwood, wife, and mother and wife's mother; Mr. and Mrs. James McCollum; Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge Smith; Mr. and Mrs. John Holt; Mr. and Mrs. O. Burgitt; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sawyer; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grover; Mr. John Cole of Watertown, cousin of Mr. Lyon; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Cole of Oak Grove, cousins of Mr. Lyon; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Philips; Mr. William Holt; Mr. and Mrs. William Bonner; Mr. E. J. Boomer; Mr. and Mrs. Wright Clifford; Mr. J. B. Miller of Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ford; Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Crowl; Mrs. Marvin; Mrs. Clark Drown; Mrs. H. H. Elkins; Mrs. Judd.

After a social reunion of friends, many of whom had long been separated, they were invited to a grand supper spread on a long table under the maples in the front yard. Just before supper Mr. Voorhees asked the blessing, and Hon. Lorenzo Merrill made a spirited address to the honored couple and friends assembled, in which he indulged in pleasant reminiscences of the olden times when he was privileged to be the school-master for the neighborhood, and instructed many of the grown-up children present in the mysteries of arithmetic and geography, in the old log school-house by the road-side, thirty years ago. Those were the days when the children were compelled to mind their teachers and study their lessons under the penalty of a 'thrashing,' and Mr. Frank Grover and others, in their successful career, should be thankful for the 'lacing' they got when at school. He was reminded, as he caught the eye of one present, of little Amasa Drown, who was such a conscientious child that, on one day, as school was soon to be dismissed, he reminded the teacher that he had not yet received his daily flogging, which neglected duty was, of course, attended to at once.

The speaker congratulated Mr. Lyon on his favorable choice of a farm in 1843, and his equally good choice of a companion, and raising such a large family of children that he needn't be ashamed of; and all joined in expressing the hope that their last days would be their best days, and though the feebleness of age should come, their hearts would be warm with the affection of their children and friends, and drawn toward a better country whose inhabitants never grow old.

Among the numerous tokens of kindly interest were the following presents to Mr. and Mrs. Lyon: bed-room set, bed spring and album, from the children of Mr. and Mrs. D. Lyon; gentleman's upholstered easy chair, from John Cole of Watertown; fine upholstered patent rocker, Minnesota Junction friends; floral motto—"Home, Sweet Home"—in ebony frame, C. B. Beebe, Beaver Dam; panel fruit picture and frame, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Weaver, Beaver Dam; majolica water pitcher, Mrs. Marvin, Beaver Dam; fine towel and tidy, Mr. and Mrs. Booth, Beaver Dam; Bohemian glass vase with cut flowers, Belle Lyon, Beaver Dam; ebony paper holder, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith; bottle of imported wine, pair of slippers, silk handkerchief, gold scarf pin, Mr. and Mrs. Schluckerbier, Beaver Dam; pair of bronze glass vases, Mrs. Chas. Burgess, Juneau; four chromo pictures, by great-grandchildren—Charlie, Loan H., Clark B. and Belle W. Burgess; two dollars, currency, Ellis Acker, Oak Grove; fine linen collar, Mrs. C. Drake; fine worsted and beaded lambrequin, Mrs. L. Radcliffe, Iowa; black walnut towel rack, Mr. Goss, Minnesota Junction; black walnut watch-safe, S. Lyon, Rolling Prairie; gold dollar, Mrs. Elkins; one dollar, Mrs. Judd; china cup, saucer and fifty cents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Philips; gold dollar, Mrs. Calkins, Lowell; two and-a-half dollar gold piece, Mr. and Mrs. H. Pronty, Rolling Prairie; dozen silver knives, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. T. Holt, Mr. William Holt; dozen silver forks, Rolling Prairie friends; gold-headed cane and gold spectacles, Mr. E. J. Boomer, Mr. and Mrs. William Bonner, Peter Beule, A. and J. Mirlach; castor with call bell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Holt, Mr. and Mrs. O. Burgitt, Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Drown, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lockwood; silver cake basket, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill, Miss Mattie Aitcheson, Mrs. Eliza Cutler, Mrs. O. H. Crowl; gold collar button, Mr. and Mrs. E. Sawyer; silver butter dish, F. B. Grover, N. F. Thomas, C. W. Burgess, W. T. Clifford; fancy lap robe, Mr. and Mrs. James McCollum; numerous pieces of gold coin on cake, from unnamed friends: half dollar, Mrs. Godding; one dollar, George Hyland; one dollar and-a-half, A. H. Drown."

“DEAR BROTHER AND SISTER:—It being the first day of the year, I take the opportunity to write a few lines after waiting upwards of two years in hopes to receive some more from you, but have not had any only by way of Joseph Putnam when he returned from Massachusetts. He wrote to us and gave us what information he could of you all.

I should have written before, but my thoughts have been principally taken up about my future welfare. My inquiry has generally been, what should I do to be saved? and I hope it has been the inquiry of you all. I hope that we shall all meet upon the 'banks of sweet deliverance' to join in one perpetual strain of praise to our Redeemer. Though I am situated in the wilderness, you might suppose it was a lonesome situation. We have moved about ten miles from the river on account of our health. Our nearest neighbor is about four miles distant, and the woods are inhabited by bears, buffalo, wolves, panthers, wild cats and various kinds of wild beasts, and the largest kind of venomous snakes. They killed a great many very long rattlesnakes last summer about the house. They have killed a bear within 100 rods of the house, yet I feel no dread. I am perfectly satisfied and contented. We are all in perfect health. We have nine children, six daughters and three sons. Our youngest was born March 7, 1825. We call his name Nathan Thomas. Anzaline is up at the missionaries', upwards of 100 miles from here, at school. . . . My dear mother, I desire to see you once more, but it is uncertain whether we ever meet on this earth again, but I hope we shall meet in a better world never to be parted any more. May the Lord bless you all abundantly with his grace. Trust in the Lord, for he is good; all his ways are pleasantness and all his paths are peace.

I remain, your affectionate sister and child,

MARY PUTNAM.

Mr. Putnam and the children send their best love to you all. Please to write soon, for I want to hear from you very much. Direct your letters to Arkansas Territory, Crawford County, and they will come directly here."

13568. EDWARD⁵ (520), Zechariah¹, John³, Zechariah², John¹, b. July 20, 1753; m. 1777, Mary Brewer of Cape Breton, N. S.; he was, for some years, a merchant in Boston; 1790, went to Henniker, N. H., and made his permanent residence there; his homestead in Henniker is now occupied by his grandsons; he is represented as an energetic business man and highly respected among the old merchants of Boston; he was a Mason and member of the Rising States Lodge of Boston, from which, in 1801, he received a diploma; he is said to have been the owner of the first chaise in Henniker; the settlement of this family in Henniker happened thus: in 1690 a naval expedition was dispatched against Quebec under the command of Sir William Phipps; one of the companies, composed of men from Stow, Marlborough and Westborough, was under the command of Capt. Andrew Gardner; the money received by the soldiers was the paper currency of the Colony, which was so depreciated as to be almost worthless; in view of this fact the heirs of Capt. Gardner's company, headed by John Whitman² of Stow, in 1728 petitioned the General Court for a grant of land in settlement of their claims; after many delays, in 1736 the Court granted the petitioners township No. 6, lying in the line of towns between the Connecticut and Merrimac Rivers; the petitioners, some sixty in number, met in Concord, Sept., 1737, and allotted the land among themselves; this tract soon after became the town of Henniker; it has not been ascertained in what manner Edward³ became possessed of this property, as no deeds are found among the records, and no mention is made of this property in the will of John³; the property was probably given to Zechariah⁴, and he divided it between his sons Edward⁵, Daniel⁵ and John⁵; Zechariah⁵ was already settled at Westminster, while Thomas⁵ remained at Stow and received the property in that town; no will of Zechariah⁴ has been found to throw any light upon this point; Edward⁵ d. Henniker, Aug. 20, 1805; his wife d. Aug. 7, 1807; 3 c. I. Edward⁶; II. Ebenezer⁶; III. Thomas⁶.

13569. I. EDWARD⁶, b. Boston, Oct. 20, 1779; m. Feb. 11, 1810, Polly, daughter of Ephraim and Ruth (Campbell) Goss, b. Oct. 29, 1791; d. Feb. 24, 1855; he came to Henniker with his father, and was for many years a merchant; he received the homestead from his father and the last years of his life occupied himself with his farm; in 1819 was clerk of the Calvinistic Society of Henniker; was a prominent and highly respected citizen; d. Oct. 25, 1845; 6 c., all unmarried but one.

13570. 1. EDWARD BREWER⁷, b. Oct. 30, 1811; received the Whitman homestead from his father, where he now resides; a valuable citizen.

“WINCHESTER, FRANKLIN CO., TENN., }
April 26, 1886. }

MR. CHARLES H. FARNAM—

Dear Sir:—Yours of the 19th inst. received, in which you make the double request of me: that I prepare a brief sketch of my grandfather Whitman; also, to tell you something of myself. It would suit me better to be excused. This rather overreaches me. The one somewhat too grave and responsible; the other wanting significance to attract much interest. Let me prefer that which is entitled to most respect and reverence. Something like 120 years ago my grandfather first saw the light of day. Born within the realm of King George III., he witnessed the dawn of the Republic—its baptism and christening in the blood of heroes—this foundling, this offspring of patriots and statesmen. Certainly early events with him were startling. A change—what a change—how wondrous! Has another ‘Aladdin’s lamp’ been through the land? Yea, more so. Are the spirits of the departed permitted again to revisit the earth to look upon this change? Grandfather was an old man when I could first remember, at least sixty years old. Now this was sixty-two years ago, and what I knew of him was in my childhood and boyhood days. You can well see the estimate to be placed upon this. One so young, thoughtless, little given to observation and reflection, it cannot amount to but little, save only it has the essential truth. Of his early days and more mature manhood I can possibly know but little, only from relation, fireside talk and family conferences; but these are reliable, coming as they do from grandmother and mother. A child’s sympathy and attention are always enlisted when these touching things are discussed. They never burn out or decay—fed, kept alive, with a feeling that is sacred.

Daniel Whitman was a man of mark, features bold in outline, open and confiding, robust in form, square built, strong physically and mentally. He traveled New England considerably on business of various kinds; was once in the lumber and timber cutting business; got out and furnished lumber for the renowned old ship, the 'Constitution;' kept an assorted retail store; was thrifty and well to do in 'getting on;' met, loved and married the brave little beauty and wit, Sallie Kast, and their fortunes, be they what they may, were united. They lived, loved and were happy, and prospered well until the spirit of adventure came. The vision of the 'Far West,' the blooming South, rose alluring and alluring to thousands, and still alluring, till the 'Great West' has ceased to be a camping-ground—a scene now of busy life, populous cities, churches, colleges, railroads and wealth. His was then no dream of the enthusiast but a reality. I can but admire his pluck and energy—this is bravery.

But in an evil hour he unfortunately came in contact with some land-jobbers, eastern sharpers, speculators in Virginia lands; was induced to invest, to emigrate; was deluded, victimized and defrauded. The lands were a wild, lying far back in inaccessible mountains, and the titles worthless and fraudulent, and wearied with hunting them up he settled down in Halifax Co., Va., somewhere near 1808. Here he found generous friends, hospitable neighbors, and soon won his way with these good people, a stranger in a strange land. Conceive the situation; a trying one, sure. A new start, a new beginning, had to be begun, and quite well it was done. Not long ere he had a home, cattle, horses and herds around him; kept a village hostelry and old-time tavern, a house of public entertainment; was popular, courteous, kind, just and honest, over-indulgent to his debtors for his own pecuniary good; with qualities such as these, however noble and generous, success is rarely ever very flattering.

And again the time comes; the teeming, bounding, promising West looms up, the tide of emigration is flowing, excitement high, great news from away beyond the mountains, and accordingly, in Nov., 1829, we find him taking his course with the setting sun, leaving the married families behind to follow in the coming next year. Parting with the best of friends and neighbors, and still lengthening the wide stretch from his once quiet home away back in the hills of New Hampshire—was this an hallucination, a roving disposition? No, sir; an enterprising spirit of manliness was in him which nothing could subdue. The one great impulse that actuated him—the wish of his heart and the effort of his life—was to settle his children around him in a land and clime of health and bounteous productions. Many of them found fruitful homes, others ‘Westward ho!’ The 24th day of Dec., 1829, we were at ‘Ross’s Landing,’ then an Indian village, not a white settler there; now a city, Chattanooga, of 20,000 inhabitants. The 25th, Christmas day, we were at ‘Gunter’s Landing,’ now Gunter’sville, a town of some importance. Mr. Gunter, a white man, a venerable, patriarchal-looking gentleman (his wife, an Indian), sent a pressing invitation to the family to take a feast-day’s dinner. It was accepted on the part of grandmother, uncle Robert and some others. A fine dinner was spread, and two handsome Indian ladies—half-breeds, Mr. G.’s daughters—presided. A ball-play was going on all day, pony racing, etc. I kept close under my grandmother’s arm. The 1st day of Jan., 1830, found us at Huntsville, Ala., among many old acquaintances, former residents of the ‘Old Dominion,’ and greetings and welcomes met us all around. This was the ‘land of cotton,’ and it proved the wealthiest place I ever saw of its size.

But to return to the subject—the character of the man. I never knew him to talk nonsense; jesting, idle tricks, low humor, had no pleasure for him. The use of tobacco was eschewed in every form; gunning and fishing, he gave no time to these; never saw him with gun, rod or tackle in his hands; the whip and spur, useless articles to him for man, boy or beast. If there is anything a mischievous boy never forgets and ever remembers it is the flash of an angered parent's eye, the foreboding countenance of something coming, but I never saw this with grandfather; never saw him mad, hot and in high temper; and if he ever sang it was to his own musing and within, and to whistle in his presence was to wrong him. Give but argument, solid talk, and you would catch and take attention. Mild in speech and manners; a deep-toned expression of thought ever rested on his countenance; pleasing and polite withal; no wrangles, no law-suits, no violence or difficulties with neighbors; rarely ever went to public gatherings, elections, parades, etc. Fourth of July, Christmas and other holidays he enjoyed mostly at home with company—dinners of roasts, mince-pies, puddings, doughnuts, cream toast, tea and coffee, and the never omitted egg-nog. He could never be induced to own slaves; the right of others to do so he never questioned or controverted, and was a stickler for all constitutional guarantees, and lived in harmony with the people among whom his lot was cast. His children—sons and daughters—married all Southern (born and bred) people with one exception—the eldest, Philip, who was married before coming to Virginia.

Capt. Whitman, for so he was known and called, was a clear-headed man, his opinions respected and held in high regard. Ostentation, show and pride were avoided and shunned by him. Plain, frugal and economical, never covetous or avaricious, more the philosopher than the speculative theorist, patient under reverses and trying circumstances, and forbearing with the evil, aiding and assisting the good. He died in peace, at his home and farm, with family, relations and friends around, in Bedford Co., Tenn.

‘After life's fitful fever he sleeps well.’

Much has been omitted, necessarily so. The biography of a family so extended, so numerous, would be an endless task, alike to author and reader, and I hope those into whose hands your work may fall will appreciate this. I do not feel fully satisfied that I have done full justice to the memory of this good man, but it was all the limits would allow.

Respectfully and faithfully, ever and ever,

H. T. CARR."

"WINCHESTER, TENN., April 27, 1886.

MR. CHARLES H. FARNAM—

My Dear Sir:—You do not put me in a bad humor with myself when you so modestly compliment me, and quietly ask of me to say something of myself. A few scattering weeks and months in the school-house; twenty-five years at the desk and counter, boy and master; four years of war; ten years at the bar; a tourist, somewhat, abroad; a traveler in my own, dear native lands; the waters of the Mississippi, its tributaries and its estuary, are known to me; the great cities of our Union and its famous Capital are not entirely unfamiliar to me—but I desist; with this, a line from one of the Scotch bards, Scott, I think, which hits me pretty fair:

‘For I was ever wayward, bold and wild,
A self-willed imp, a grandma’s child.’

But to understand better, let Mr. Carr utter himself, with a life traced in honor’s work almost to its end; he would say:

‘The days of my youthful gladness are o’er,
The night of old age with its darkness hath come;
Time hath shattered my bark, broken the oar,
That braved the current of life when stout and young.
But around me with warmth gather the friendships of old,
And the hopes of the future still cluster my heart;
The memories of the past, ah! what pleasures unfold—
Erelong we shall from these, the world and its brightness, depart.’

Yours,

H. T. C.”

14174. 2. WILLIAM WHITMAN HOBBS^s, b. Norway, Me., May 28, 1810; m. June 17, 1840, Sarah Farrington, daughter of Ezekiel Merrill, b. Andover, Me., Nov. 15, 1818; d. Lynn, Mass., Nov. 8, 1883; they settled for a time at Norway, and later, went West; he d. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 13, 1876; 4 c.

"Mr. Hobbs was a native of Norway, Me., and his home was in his native town until, about 1871, he removed to Minnesota, and settled at Swede Grove, on the Northern Pacific Railroad, about 60 miles westward of St. Paul. He there engaged in mercantile pursuits, conducting a large and successful business until a few weeks before his death, when he was attacked with inflammation of the kidneys. The resident physician having failed to relieve him, he went, accompanied by his wife, to St. Paul for treatment, but there, too, medical skill proved in vain, and in little more than a week death came to end his great suffering.

Mr. Hobbs had the advantage of a superior academic education, and for several years was a very successful instructor of youth, having taught on Paris Hill, at Augusta, Andover and many other places. At Andover he made the acquaintance of Miss Sarah F. Merrill, daughter of Dea. Ezekiel Merrill, whom he married. He settled upon a farm in his native town, but when the gold mines of California became an attraction, his stirring nature and robust physique could not withstand the temptation. He, with others, raised a company, of whom he was chosen captain, and they crossed the plains to the golden State. After two years of successful mining he returned to his family, purchased, took up his residence upon and improved, the old homestead at Norway Centre. While residing there he represented the town in the Legislature, and held various other positions of trust. Through the influence of Senator Fessenden he received an appointment in Washington; but official life at the Capital did not please him, and after two years' service he resigned and went into business in Minnesota, where he became widely known and was universally held in high esteem.

Mr. Hobbs was richly endowed with both physical and mental powers, and, though never seeking prominence, he always wielded a large influence. He was a public-spirited citizen, a wise counsellor, a true and generous friend, a most indulgent and devoted husband and father. His sudden death was a severe blow to his family—consisting of wife, son and two daughters—and carried sincere sorrow to a very large circle of relatives and attached friends.”

14175. ADELA SOPHRONIA HOBBS⁸, b. July 12, 1842; m. April 18, 1867, Hon. John Milton, son of Nathan and Susan (Merrill) Adams, b. Rumford, Me., Sept. 22, 1819; he attended the district school till ten years of age, when the sudden death of his father demanded that his time should be spent in assisting in the support of the family; for the next five years he worked upon the farm, receiving such instruction from his mother as time permitted; desiring to secure a college education, he attended, successively, Turner Grammar School, Bethel and Bridgeton Academies, supporting himself by teaching school during the winter; in 1839 he took charge of New Market Academy, Kent Co., Md., and taught successfully for two years, when he was called home by the death of a brother; compelled to abandon the idea of a college course, he attended, for two years, the seminary at Gorham, Me., and then went to St. Hyacinthe College, Canada, where he acquired a thorough knowledge of French; in 1844 he began the study of law with Fessenden & Deblois, at Portland, also teaching French in Mr. Packard's school for young ladies; in 1846 was admitted to the bar and entered upon the practice of his profession; in 1848 he entered into partnership with the late John A. Poor, the distinguished railroad projector and writer; in 1850-51 he made a visit to Europe, acting as correspondent of the Railroad Journal of New York; on his return he was appointed Colonel on the staff of Gov. Hubbard; in 1855 he temporarily assumed the editorial chair of the Eastern Argus while the editor, John Appleton, was serving as Secretary of Legation at London; in 1856 was appointed reporter of judicial business and edited Vols. XLI. and XLII. of the Maine reports; he formed, about this time, a partnership with Hon. Nathan Clifford, which continued till Mr. Clifford was appointed Associate Justice of U. S. Supreme Court; he was then selected, by the proprietors of the Eastern Argus, as editor-in-chief and manager, a position which, after some hesitation, he accepted, and which he has since continuously held, having become its sole proprietor soon after the disastrous fire of 1866; the management of one of the leading journals of the Eastern States, for thirty-two years, has brought him, face to face, with the great political questions of the State and Nation, in the discussion of which his ready pen, his lucid exposition of facts, and his prompt and unreserved opinions, as expressed through the columns of his paper, has won for him the confidence of the thinking portion of his readers; though often solicited to take office, he has almost invariably declined, accepting once the post of County Superintendent of Schools, and twice consenting to serve his residence town, Deering, in the Legislature; in 1888 President Cleveland tendered him an appointment as member of the Board of Visitors to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, which he accepted, as its duties would require but brief service; his skill as a manager is amply attested by the fact, that the Argus has the largest circulation of any paper in the State; for the many years he resided in Portland he always took a leading part in matters pertaining to the interest and prosperity of that city, its public enterprises and the welfare of its citizens; 5 c.

Boston, Dec. 31, 1882, aged 89; 3 c. b. Princeton; the following appeared in the Boston Transcript of Jan. 3, 1883:

*"To the Editor of the Transcript:—*I wish to call attention to the career of a venerable Massachusetts citizen—perhaps the last representative of a by-gone generation—whose funeral took place yesterday afternoon (Jan. 2), with appropriate services, in the Central Church of this city. The relatives and friends who attended and took their farewell glance of the placid face—reposing serenely in the coffin as though it were the customary bed of the mortal body—were all impressed by the absence of any suggestion of that senility which is apt to mark the features of extreme old age when physical vitality has departed. He seemed not to have died, but to have quietly fallen asleep; and 'to be continued' rather than 'finis' was written in every lineament of that gracious countenance, which, in what we call life, ever beamed affection and vigorous good-will to all within its view. The man of ninety years, lying there in his shroud, appeared to be the same man whom, a few days before, all of us had recognized as singularly erect and vigorous for one of his advanced years; and, indeed, it was only an accidental cold which brought on a disease, which is as common to youth as to age, that brought him thus low. On Christmas day, surrounded by his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, the present writer laughingly said to him: 'Well, uncle, you will live to write all our obituaries!' and there was nothing in his cheerful response which made the prophecy impossible.

This elderly gentleman, Charles Russell, was a shining example of the old style of country gentleman of New England. He began life with nothing but intelligence, frugality and honesty; he never attained the position of a man of wealth, and he never strove for it; he was the first business man in the town where he lived and of the villages which surrounded it; but he so thoroughly gave his customers the best goods that could be obtained, and charged so small a commission on his sales, that it was impossible for him to get rich. He acquired, however, something better than riches—the reputation for intelligence, integrity, piety and solid character; and he became a public man and a legislator because he really represented the manly and intelligent constituency of farmers who sent him to the General Court.

A few years ago I happened to meet the late Governor Bullock at the 'Wachusett House' in Princeton. As we were walking on the piazza of the hotel, conversing about the difference between the present and the past method of electing members to the Massachusetts Senate and House of Representatives, he suddenly took me by the arm and asked me if I saw that little white house, about half a mile off, sheltered by some trees and bushes. I answered yes, the Governor having not the slightest suspicion that I knew the house, because for more than thirty years I had enjoyed the cordial hospitality of its inmates. 'Well,' he resumed, 'I call your attention to that dwelling because it is the residence of almost the last surviving specimen of the old school of our legislators. Mr. Charles Russell lives in it; and when our representation was by towns, that man was chosen to represent Princeton because he knew everybody in it, and consequently everybody knew him. He embodied Princeton; he was this town individualized; he was trusted because everybody who voted for him was certain he was worthy of being trusted; and I look upon him as one of the best living examples in the whole State of what was done in the old time when every voter knew his representative as he knew his friends and neighbors. Such a man is worthy of all respect. If you stay here long you should try to make his acquaintance.' It was only after the Governor had delivered his panegyric that I informed him the little 'white house' of Princeton was more dear to me than the big one at Washington, and that I had called his model citizen by the name of 'Uncle Russell' after many years of cordial intercourse with him.

In fact, Charles Russell was for years, on the principle of 'natural selection,' the chief man in Princeton—not because he sought office but because office sought him. He became town clerk and postmaster; from 1826 to 1833 the town insisted on his being its representative in the General Court; and then the county of Worcester sent him for four years to the Senate. He was then for three years annually elected a member of the governor's council.

There is one notable fact to be remembered in all these indications of the respect which Princeton and Worcester County had for Mr. Russell. The town and county knew, of course, that he was incorruptible as far as money was concerned; but there is another method of corruption far more subtle in its influence than that addressed to the greed for illicit gain. This method is, in short, the appeal to vanity which demoralizes honest people more than is generally supposed. Certain leaders in the 'good society' of the metropolis may, for instance, desire to push some schemes intended for their private advantage. They probably buy a vote here and there; the purchased representative is soon detected by his shrewd constituents, and is allowed to escape infamy by being dropped into the obscurity of legislative oblivion to be heard of no more; but the parties, the dinners, the blandishments of fashionable society, are more likely to corrupt the average rustic legislator than any direct appeals to his cupidity.

Mr. Russell was 'iron-clad' by his conscience and integrity to both of these methods of converting an honest man into a knave. Hardly any legislator of his time was more flattered by invitations to the dinners and parties of the opulent; but he never appeared in any company where he did not appear on an easy equality with any gentleman in it; and it was soon seen that he was one of that high-bred class called by Dryden 'God Almighty's gentlemen,' whose inbred courtesy suffices for all conventional imitations of it, and who could not be flattered into voting for anything against which their conscience and their sense of duty to their constituents protested.

It is impossible for me to say all that I would in celebration of the virtues of this good citizen, because your space is more limited than my warm love and admiration. I must therefore close by quoting a stanza from a great poet, showing that in old age, after Mr. Russell had left politics and business, he quietly enjoyed the remunerations which a virtuous maturity of manhood lends to a happy old age. All who knew and loved him will ever remember his erect bearing when eighty-nine years old. This stalwart erectness of person was but the symbol of a moral erectness of stainless integrity that feared to look no man in the eye. So we may say of him :

'Thy thoughts and feelings shall not die,
Nor leave thee, when gray hairs are nigh,
A melancholy slave ;
But an old age, serene and bright,
And lovely as a Lapland night,
Shall lead thee to thy grave.'

E. P. W."

14424. DR. CHARLES⁵ (541), Charles⁴, John³, Zechariah², John¹, b. Stow, April 28, 1773; m. 1. 1798, Charlotte Wood; she d. June 8, 1836; m. 2. March 26, 1840, Lydia, daughter of Jacob and Esther Whitney; he studied medicine with Dr. Eldridge, the father of the first husband of "Fanny Fern;" it is related that when residing at the home of the Doctor, young Whitman, with another student, placed a quantity of quicksilver in the pudding bag; when the pudding was put in the hot water it jumped out upon the floor much to the terror of the cook, who declared it bewitched; Dr. Whitman entered upon life under the brightest auspices; his father left him the bulk of his property and a large professional practice; with his bride he received a dower of several thousand pounds; they were, at the time, said to have been the wealthiest couple ever married at Stow; Miss Wood's wedding costume is reported to have been a handsomely embroidered white India muslin, a long white satin cloak trimmed with white fur, and a large white hat with white ostrich plumes; their house was furnished with great elegance, but nearly everything was destroyed by a fire in 1812, which occurred while the family were at church; the only articles saved were the Doctor's watch, a single necklace of Mrs. Whitman's, and a silver tankard, an heir-loom in the family, into which, it was said, every new-born infant was placed to see if the lid would close; the disposition of the property under his father's will, however, involved the Doctor in an interminable litigation, and though he in the end was successful, it was still at the expense of a large portion of his estate; a man of most generous disposition, he was ever ready to lend a helping hand to his friends and neighbors; he endorsed for his brother-in-law, one Brooks of Montreal, and not only suffered a loss of several thousand pounds, but was compelled to take the Brooks family into his household and support them; in business matters he was lax, and rarely presented a bill for medical services; between 1792-1801 he represented the town six terms in the General Court; in 1802 he was appointed surgeon of the 2d Regiment of Militia; in personal appearance he greatly resembled Daniel Webster, and it is said that a portrait of Webster would require but few alterations to make it a good portrait of the Doctor; his first wife was a very superior woman, proud, high-spirited, and of unusual culture and intelligence; the daughters of the family were noted for their great beauty and cultivation; the last survivor of them, Mrs. Blood, was considered a beauty even when nearly eighty; the death of the eldest son, just as he was preparing to enter Harvard, was a great blow to his parents, and one from which they never fully recovered; he d. have been a lesson to those whose lines had fallen in pleasanter places; careless to a fault in regard to his own affairs, his interests were vigilantly looked after by a faithful wife, and it is to her care and economy that are due the comfort of home in his later years; it is sad to the friends who appreciated him to know that the old man is gone, but it is also a satisfaction to feel that he is past all suffering;" his widow resides No. Scituate; 1 c.

March 5, 1886, aged 85; upon his marriage he moved into the east part of the town upon a tract of land forfeited for taxes and bid off by his father; it was situated on a high hill and covered with a heavy growth of hard-wood timber; here he had already erected a log-cabin, and when he had settled his wife in her home, set himself to the difficult task of making a clearing; he was a stalwart worker and well skilled in wood-craft, and in process of time he had a large and productive farm; the young couple endured many hardships, but neither of them thought of shrinking from the trying duties which the situation imposed; they were two miles from the nearest neighbor, and when they first moved into their cabin had to walk that distance, there being no road and only a spotted line; it is reported that on two occasions the fire on the hearth became extinguished and Mrs. Whitman was compelled to go to the nearest neighbor, Mr. Lemuel Perham's, for a supply; it was no easy matter to carry fire two miles through the woods, but she took a piece of cotton cloth, rolled it tightly, and setting fire to one end, it kept alive till she reached her home; they had a large family of interesting and intelligent children, all but two of whom d. young; he d. “Dr. Charles Galusha Pomeroy’s ancestors were all from and among the first Pilgrim Puritan settlers of kin and kinsmen—kin whose descendants became eminent, distinguished divines, physicians, men of law and letters, from whom he no doubt inherited his youthful wisdom and decided characteristics; to prepare himself at an unusually early age for a professional life, his education was obtained at the Canandaigua and Rochester city academies; he read medicine with Dr. James Post of Canandaigua and remained with him three years, and with untiring energy and faithfulness in the performance of all duties his diligence was rewarded and his boyhood’s ambition crowned with success, when, at the age of nineteen, he received his licentiate to practice medicine and surgery, commencing at once in a small village in Monroe County; during the summer of that year he formed the acquaintance and friendship of the most prominent physician of Wayne County (twenty years his elder), Dr. Alexander McIntyre, who located in Palmyra, N. Y., 1800; ‘a surgeon in the war of 1812, he accompanied Gen. Swift to the frontier, was at the battle of Lundy’s Lane, and at the surrender of Fort Erie he was with Gen. Swift when he fell.’

From this friendship a partnership was established in the autumn of the first year of his practice, and an attachment formed which continued the residue of their lives; the time passed with Dr. McIntyre was of great service to him, as Dr. McIntyre had a large surgical practice; but the ‘phoenix-like’ spirit of the young physician longed to attain those heights which his honored senior had reached; with renewed energy, practice and skill he again located (alone), in 1837, in a small village in Wayne County (Fairville), conveniently near the larger villages of Palmyra and Newark; he there founded the nucleus of a reputation which eventually made his name familiar to all, as the most prominent physician and surgeon in the county; having a most pleasing address and courteous manner, although strong and decided in his convictions of right and honor always, his friends were legion, and in 1845, feeling the need of a still wider field for his professional work, he again and for the last time made a change, locating in Newark, N. Y., where he had formed intimate and firm friendships which death alone severed; the winter of 1850 he passed in Philadelphia, attending lectures at the Jefferson Medical College, where he had conferred upon him an 'ad eundem degree.'

It is conceded that he stood in the front rank of his profession in Central New York, and at its head in the county; the Wayne County Medical Society is indebted to him for its reorganization and revivification after the death of its former medical giants, Dr. Gain Robinson, its founder, and his nephew, Dr. Alexander McIntyre; Dr. Pomeroy reorganized the society, revised the by-laws in 1860, and was repeatedly elected its president; the honor and purity of the society was his chief desire; his was the toning element to make its meetings interesting, to encourage its members to ever remain students of thought, research, culture and refinement, which many papers, addresses, important cases cited, delivered and discussed before them, testify to his depth of thought and feeling for its prosperity, and his example was ever one showing his high regard for the honor and dignity of his beloved profession; the same element was observed in his consultations; if he differed with any one he was kind and conciliatory.

He occupied an honorable position in many of our most prominent medical associations, both State and National; he was a permanent member of the American Medical Association, a permanent member of the Medical Society of the State of New York, Fellow and one of the founders of the New York State Medical Association, and the President of the Medical Association of Central New York, before which, at its semi-annual meeting and its twenty-first anniversary, 1888, held in the city of Rochester, N. Y., the President delivered an earnest address; referring to its organization, he said that the second regular paper was read by C. G. Pomeroy of Wayne County, its third President, the subject 'sulphites;' the paper was, by vote, requested for publication; in surgical knowledge Dr. Pomeroy possessed more than ordinary talent and skill; his surgical consultations were, of later years, with the late Dr. Henry B. Sands, for whom he had a warm personal friendship; during the war of the rebellion he was commissioned as surgeon of the United States volunteers, but was unable to accept, although, like his school-mate, Stephen A. Douglas, he was a strong supporter of the Government during the rebellion.

His strong force of character could not be expected to be free from decided political convictions; he was a member of the Democratic party, and one of its prominent defenders in the county; although he could have held prominent positions, his influence and advice for the good of his party alone interested him; his profession and his duties to it were always first and foremost in his mind, and nothing was allowed to waive them aside; the eminence to which he arose and was acknowledged and honored in the science and practice of medicine and surgery were enough for him, won by a life-time of self-sacrifice and devotion in his Master's service ('healing the sick'), to whom he ever felt most humble, giving all honor to Him in whose hands he was only the means; as a citizen he was public-spirited, always deeply interested in whatever tended to advance the interests of his own village; he was a true friend to the poor, both in word and deed; he was trustee, treasurer and medical adviser of the New York State Custodial Asylum for feeble-minded women, located in Newark, N. Y."

V., the first company in the first regiment organized under the call of President Lincoln for 300,000 men, July, 1862; immediately after being mustered into service in September, the regiment was ordered to Harper's Ferry, commanded by Gen. Miles; on Maryland Heights they engaged in battle with Kershaw's S. C. Brigade, supported by Barksdale's Miss. Brigade, until ordered to retire; the regiment, with others, was surrendered (sold out) by Miles; they were paroled, sent to Chicago, exchanged, re-armed, then assigned to the Army of the Potomac as part of the 3d Brigade, 3d Division, 2d Army Corps, Gen. Alex. Hays commanding; this brigade participated in all the battles of the Army of the Potomac until the close of the war, 1865; it arrived at Gettysburg early in the morning of the second day, at 8 A. M., and formed on the crest of the ridge south of Ziegler's grove and 'Bryan' house; Gen. Hancock, in his official report, says: 'the 3d Brigade, 3d Division, commanded by Col. Sheird (who was killed), made a gallant advance on the enemy's batteries, in which the 111th N. Y. Vols., under Col. McDugall, bore a distinguished part; it lost more than one-half of its numbers;' Gen. Hays, in his official report, says 'that the history of this brigade's operations is written in blood.'

In a report made by an officer of Co. A, 111th Regiment, he states: 'our regiment foots up a total of 248 killed—more than any other regiment in the army; among the many singular incidents of the fight it happened that among those opposed to us on the second day we fought was the regiment that entered Harper's Ferry after we were sold out last fall (1862); this regiment was cut to pieces, its commander, Gen. Barksdale, was killed, and we captured their battle-flag upon which they had inscribed "Harper's Ferry," and also some of the very muskets they had taken from us; Harper's Ferry was redeemed; Col. McDugall was wounded, afterwards receiving the promotion of General; Capt. McIntyre received papers for a Major's commission, but having received a staff appointment on Morris Island, accepted and was among those who were the first to enter Charleston upon its surrender, returning home at the close of the war, 1865.'"

In Testimony whereof I have hereunto Set my hand and the Seale of the s^d Office. Dated at Boston, the Seventeenth day of March, 1692 3.

WILLIAM STOUTINGTON, J.

Jn^s ADDINGTON, Reg.

I, John Whitman of Weymouth in New England being weak of body, but of perfect memory and of a disposing mind, trusting in God through Jesus Christ my only Lord and Saviour for eternal life. Do make this my last Will and Testament as it followeth. That is, after all my Lawful Debts duely and truly paid and Funeral Expenses discharged, My will is, and I give unto my Eldest Son Thomas Whitman all that Land Meadow and Estate, which I have upon his marriage or at any time heretofore, put unto his possession and occupation, as the one-half of that Salt meadow commonly called the Round Marsh, which half is two acres and a half, be it more or less, and half that Lot which is commonly called the Pond Lott. Hereby confirming my former Gifts and Grant to him and his heirs forever. Also my Will is, and I do give to my Son John Whitman the other half of the above mentioned Pond Lot upon which he now dwells, and Seven acres and half of Land, be it more or less, lying in the Field commonly called the ferry Field, which I obtained by way of Exchange for other Land of Samuel King. Also that two acres of Salt Marsh, be it more or less, lying within the Township of Brantree, which he hath heretofore had in his occupation. Also one full half of that part of my great wood Lot and Swamp adjoining to Reed Marsh (which lyeth on the Westerly or further Side of that Run of water which passeth out of the s^d Lot into Blancher meadow) by a just and equal division for quantity and quality. Hereby confirming all my former Grants and Gifts to him and his heirs forever. Also my Will is and I do give to my Son Abijah Whitman my present Dwelling house, barn, orchards, with all my upland and meadow adjacent and adjoining unto it. Also seven acres of Land more, be it more or less, lying in the fores^d ferry Field. Also that Lot or parcell of Land together with the fresh meadow, adjoining to fresh Pond containing Nine acres more or less. Also the other full half of that part of my great wood Lot and Swamp adjoining to Reed's Marsh which lyeth on the Westerly or further side of the Run of water before mentioned, by a just and equal division both for quantity and quality. Hereby also confirming all my former Gifts and Grants to him and his heirs forever. Also my Will is and I do give unto my Daughter Sarah Joanes that bed which I myself do lye on, with one bolster, one covered, one blanket, one pair of Sheets, all which was willed to her by my Wife at her decease. Also I do confirme unto my Daughter Mary Pratt that two acres of fresh Meadow, be it more or less, which I have formerly given unto her, upon her marriage. Also I do confirme unto my Daughter Elizabeth Green all that five acres of Land upon Kingoak Hill, be it more or less, which I have long since given unto her upon her marriage. And further, I do give unto her the remaining part of the upland in my forementioned great Wood Lot w^{ch} lyeth on the other (that is the Easterly or hithermost) side of the forementioned Run of water. Also I do give unto her my part of the great Marsh, and two acres of Land in the Range which is Swanup Land. Also for her great and good service and attendance upon me in the time of my long Sickness, I do give to her, moreover, one flock bed, and two kettles and two Cows. All this I give to her, to be at her only dispose, by, and according to her own Will, before or at her death as she shall please. Also I give to my Grand Child Joseph Green that great Lot which I bought of John Harding, Sixteen acres, be it more or less. Also I give to my Grand Child Elizabeth Green that bed and all the clothing and furniture belonging unto it, which standeth in the chamber, together with one Cow, one pot, one kettle, one Cupboard and four platters. And further, my Will is that if there shall be any money of mine, remaining in my Son Zechariah Witman's hand, at and after my decease, it shall be distributed as followeth. That is I give the one-fourth part thereof to my Daughter Sarah Joangs. I give another fourth part thereof to my Daughter Mary Pratt. I give another fourth part thereof to the surviving children of my Daughter Hannah French deced. I give the other fourth part thereof to my Daughter Judah King. Also I do confirme unto her that Six acres of land given her upon marriage lying in the above s^d ferry Field. Finally I do hereby declare that if there shall be more than Twenty pounds in money remaining in my Son Zechariah Whitman's hand, Then my Will is and I do give the whole Residue of the money unto him my s^d Son Zechariah Whitman, together with all the Rest of my moveables not already disposed off in this, my Will. Also I doe appoint my Son John Whitman and my Son Abijah Whitman to be Executors to this, my Will Declaring this Writing to be my last Will and Testament. All other or former Wills of mine being utterly void this Ninth day of March, One Thousand Six hundred Eighty five, 1685—John Whitman and a Seale. Signed, Sealed and Declared the day and yeare above written in the presence of us, William Chard, Joseph Dyar, Thomas Bicknell.

No. 5355, Suff. Probate, v. 35, p. 177, s. 12 June, 1725, prob. 16 Dec. 1726.

In the Name and fear of God, Amen. I, Zechariah Whitman of Hull, in the County of Suffolk, in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, being well stricken in years, yet being of a perfect memory, and a disposing mind, do make this writing my last will and testament, and hereby do make void all former wills and testaments in manner and form following :

Imprimis. I give my soul to God that gave it, and my body after my death to be decently interred, and all my lawful debts to be duly and truly paid, and all my funeral charges defrayed ; then all my outward estate I do will and dispose of as follows :

Imprimis. I will and bequeath to my son, Zachariah Whitman, all my land and meadow in Milford not contained in a deed of gift already given him, and all the priviledges thereto belonging to him, his heirs and assigns forever, on this condition, that he never give the least disturbance to anyone, that has any part of the farm at Asabath or Stow by deed of gift made over to him, in his possession of the same, and also that he pay or cause to be paid to his sister, Johanna Hunt of Boston, in New England, her heirs or assigns, the sum of one hundred pounds of current money, or bills of credit of this province, within a twelve month after my decease ; and in case he do not punctually observe the above mentioned condition, then I do hereby empower my executor to take the land not contained in the forementioned deed of gift, that is to say, all my land on the Indian side, and five acres of meadow at — Plain: also, it is my will that my son, John Whitman, pay to my daughter Hunt forty and five pounds in current money or bills credit, as he has by bond obliged himself to do on my giving a deed of gift to him of part of my farm at Asabath or Stow. Item, unto the rest of my children unto whom I have made over part of my estate by deeds of gift, as to my son, Samuel Whitman, to my daughters, Sarah Goold, Mary Jacobs and Johannah Hunt, I give of my movable estate as follows: Inprimis, I give and bequeath to my daughter Hunt, of my moveable estate, twenty-five pounds, and then the rest of my moveable estate that remains to be equally divided between the forementioned children, namely: Samuel Whitman, Sarah Goold, Johanna Hunt and Mary Jacobs, whether goods, chattels, or just and lawful debts. And I do constitute my son, Samuel Whitman, to be the sole and only Executor of this my last will and testament, to the confirmation hereof I do put hereto my hand and seal this twelfth day of June, one thousand seven hundred twenty and five, and in the eleventh year of the reign of our Sovereign King George: before signing and sealing these words, ordered to be added to the word plain in the twenty fifth line from the top, and make sale of it for the payment of my daughter Hunt's legacy and what is more to be my executors. ZECHARIAH WHITMAN & a seal.

"In the Name of God, Amen, the twenty eighth day of January, in the year of our Lord God one thousand seven hundred and twenty two,—three.

I, Abiah Whitman of Weymouth, in the County of Suffolk, in New England, husbandman, though weak of body but of perfect mind and memory, thanks be given to God, therefore and calling to mind my mortality and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and testament, in manner and form following, that is to say: Principally and first of all I give my soul to God, that gave it me through Jesus Christ my only Savior and Dear Redeemer, in whom I hope for eternal life, and my body I recommend to the earth from whence it was, to be buried in a decent and christian like manner at the discretion of my executors, nothing doubting but at the general resurrection to receive the same again by the mighty power of God. And as for such worldly estate as it hath pleased God to bless me with I give, divide & dispose of in the following manner and form :

Imprimis. I give to my son, John Whitman, the one half of my lot in the second division of lots, in Taunton, north purchase, that I bought of Robert Grosman ; also one half of the meadow belonging to said lot ; also one half of my lot in the third Division in the said North purchase ; also one fourth part of my lot in the fourth Division of lots in the said purchase ; and also one fourth part of the undivided lands belonging to me in north purchase above mentioned, and all my right and interest in the township of Bridgewater, and one third part of all my moveable estate ; all the above particulars given to my son, John Whitman, I give to him and to his heirs and assigns forever. Item. I give to my son, Zechariah Whitman, the one half of my lot of land in the first division of the share land in the north purchase aforesaid ; also one half of the meadow belonging thereunto ; also one quarter part of my land in the second division of lots in said purchase ; also one fourth part of my land in the fourth division of lots in said north purchase ; also one fourth part of the undivided lands belonging to me in the said north purchase, and one third part of all my moveable estate, and my will is that my son Zechariah aforesaid shall not alienate nor any ways dispose of any part of the lands above said which is given to him, without the advice and consent of my sons, John and Abiah Whitman, and Thomas Randall of North purchase ; also I give to my son, Zechariah Whitman, one third part of my moveable estate ; all the above particulars given to my son, Zechariah Whitman, I give to him and his heirs forever ; provided he do not dispose of any part of the lands given to him without the consent of John and Abiah Whitman and Thomas Randall above mentioned. Item. I give to my son, Abiah Whitman, provided he pay such legacies as I do appoint him to pay in and by this my last will and testament, my dwelling house and my barn, orchards, land and meadow thereto adjoining, and all my lands and meadow lying and being within the township of Weymouth above. Also one third part of all my moveable estate ; all which particulars above mentioned given to my son, Abiah Whitman, I give to him and to his heirs and assigns forever, he paying the legacies as I order him :

I give to my son in law, Timothy Cooper, who was husband to my late daughter Elizabeth, dec'd, one shilling, and to each of his children by my daughter Elizabeth one shilling, I having hereto fore given to my son and daughter Cooper as large a portion as I shall give to anyone of my daughters. Item. I give to my daughter, Lidia Thomas, five shillings, she having heretofore received upwards of fifty pounds from my estate. Item. I give to my daughter, Mary Daily, five shillings, my son and daughter Daily having heretofore had several parcels of land at north purchase, given by deed.

Item. I give to my daughter, Eleanor Turner, Twenty and six pounds in money, which twenty and six pounds, together with forty shillings in money which I give to the present Church of Christ in Weymouth, and the money above mentioned given to my son in law, Timothy Cooper, and his children, and to my daughter, Lidia Thomas, and to my daughter, Mary Daily, I order and appoint my son, Abiah Whitman, to pay, confirming his title as above.

Lastly, I ordain, constitute and appoint my sons, John Whitman and Abiah Whitman, above mentioned, executors of this my last will and testament, and I do hereby revoke, disannul, and utterly make void all other will or wills by me made, either by word or writing, ratifying and confirming this, and only this, for my last will and testament.

In Witness Whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above mentioned.

ABIAH WHITMAN & a seal.

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced and declared by the Testator above said as his last will and testament, in the presence of us Witnesses, the day and year first above mentioned.

Suffolk Prob. No. 6370, Lib. 31, p. 266, S. 21 Dec. 1732, pr. 30 Jan. 1732.

Ebenezer Whitman of Weymouth makes his will as follows :

"In the name of God, Amen. The twenty first of December, 1722, I, Ebenezer Whitman of Weymouth in New England, Carpenter, being very sick and weak in body, but of perfect mind and memory thanks be to God, Therefore calling unto mind ye mortality of my body, and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and Testament ; that is to say, principally and first of all, I give and recommend my soul into the hand of God that gave it, and my body I recommend to the earth, to be buried in decent burial at the discretion of my Executors, nothing doubting but at the general Resurrection I shall receive the same again by the mighty Power of God, and as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this life I give, demise and dispose of the same in the following manner and form :

In primis. I give and bequeath to Deborah and Dearly beloved wife the improvement of one third of my lands with half my dwelling house and a third part of my barn, and a third part of my personal estate and movable property during her life. Share of business. I give unto each of my daughters, Sarah, Ann, Silence and Debora. Fifty Pounds—to each of them to those that are now of age when they demand it, and to the others when they are of age or upon marriages— which sum they may demand of the Executors hereafter mentioned. And I give them equally, to be divided, two thirds of my household stuff, each their part as they come of age or marry.

Item. I give, after the debts, Legacies and funeril charges are detrayed and paid out of my estate by the Executors here after named, unto David and Daniel, my sons, all my Estate, real and personal, not before given awayn, to be divided equally between them, Daniel paying David the elder one hundred pounds when Daniel comes of age. I intend them to have their mother's third of housing and lands after her decease. I impower my brother Samuel and my wife Deborah to sell land or stock to pay debts and legacies.

Further, my will is that my brother Samuel and my wife Deborah be the Executors of this my last Will and Testament. I constitute and make them my sole Executors of this my last Will, and I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke and disannul all and every other former Testament, wills, Legacies and bequests and Executors by me in any way before named, willed and bequeathed, Ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last Will and Testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above written.

INSCRIPTION ON TOMBSTONES OF JOHN WHITMAN^a OF STOW AND HIS THREE WIVES.

Hark from the tomb a doleful sound my Ears attend the cry,
Ye living men come view the ground
Where you must shortly lie.
Princes, this clay must be your
Bed in spite of all your towers,
The tall, the wise, the Reverend Head,
Must be as low as ours.

The remains of John Whitman, Esq., are here deposited. He descended of an ancient and venerable family at Hull, where he was born in the year 1688, and died at Stow, where he had resided near seventy years, on the 3rd Day of August, A. D. 1772.

His Meekness and Piety towards God, and his Benevolence and Hospitality towards Men, made him beloved whilst living and lamented after Death.

The sweet remembrance of the Just Shall Flourish when they sleep in dust :
Why should we tremble to convey their bodies to the Tomb,
There the dear Flesh of Jesus lay and left a sweet perfume.
The Grave of his Saints he blessed
And softened every Bed ;
Where should the dying members rest
But with the dying Head.

Hear what the voice from Heaven Proclaims
For all the pious dead ;
Sweet is the Saviour of their names,
And soft their sleeping Bed.
Thence he arose, ascending High,
And shew'd our Feet the way
Up to the Lord our Flesh shall fly
At the Great arising Day.
Then let the last loud Trumpet sound,
And bid our Kindred rise :
Awake, ye Nations, under Ground,
Ye Saints ascend the Skies.
The life in Jesus and are blessed,
How kind their Slumbers are,
From Sufferings and from sins released,
And freed from every Snare ;
Far from the world of Toil and Strife
They're present with the Lord,
The labours of their Mortal Life
End in a Large reward.

Hear Lyes the Body of

SOLOMON WHITMAN. [Seal.]

Signed, sealed, pronounced and declared by s^t Solomon Whitman to be his last Will & testament, in presence of REUBEN L. NORTON, ERASTUS HART, CELE WESTON.

Approved by the Judge of Probate, Oct. 6th, 1803.

During the American Revolution, an American craft or privateer sailed up the Bay of Fundy into Minas Basin seeking whom she might devour, when Capt. William Bishop got together hastily a crew of men in a few hours, and put out to give fight to the enemy: his vessel was faulty, crew undisciplined, and they were captured by the privateer and placed in irons in the hold. Capt. William succeeded in getting out of his irons and releasing his men; he then conceived the idea of capturing the crew of the privateer, being physically a giant in strength; he went on deck, followed by his crew armed with whatever they could get, whereupon Capt. William grappled with the guard, fell down on the deck holding the man over him, and when the crew of the vessel tried to bayonet him he would shield himself with the guard, whom he would move from side to side, and thereby protect himself from their murderous assaults; the struggle was short; the crew of the privateer being taken completely by surprise were soon captives, and Capt. Bishop and his crew had control, shortly, of the vessel, which they brought into port near where Wolfville, N. S., now is, and the sword worn by him on that occasion is now in the family. (See next page, 1956.)

After the French were expelled from Nova Scotia, Governor Lawrence invited colonists from the continent to come and take possession of the lands previously occupied by these French Acadians. Accordingly many came from the British Colonies along the Atlantic shore to different parts of Nova Scotia, and JOHN BISHOP, Sr., was one of these men who came from Connecticut to Horton, N. S., with his four sons about the year 1762 A. D.
